

SCQM Acknowledgement and Data Availability in Publications

In studies with SCQM as the main data source

SCQM data-contributing institutions should be acknowledged as follows: "A list of rheumatology offices and hospitals contributing to the SCQM registry can be found on <https://www.scqm.ch/en/about-scqm/active-institutions/>. The SCQM thanks the patients for their participation in the registry."

SCQM financial support should be declared as follows: "A list of current partners that support SCQM is available on <https://www.scqm.ch/en/partners/>. Partners from previous years can be found in the respective annual reports on <https://www.scqm.ch/en/about-scqm/annual-reports/>. SCQM supporting partners had no role in the study design or in the analysis and interpretation of the data, the writing of the manuscript or the decision to submit the manuscript for publication."

Study funding: Companies or other funding agencies that funded the study and/or collaborated in the study must be referred to transparently and separately from the reference to SCQM.

In studies with SCQM and other data sources

The form of referencing of the SCQM depends on the proportion of data contribution from the SCQM in the study. In epidemiological or clinical multi-cohort collaborations including SCQM data, the name "Swiss Clinical Quality Management in Rheumatic Diseases" must be mentioned either in the author list or other appropriate sections of the main manuscript. If the SCQM contributes more than 10% of the data or more than 100 patients, the SCQM acknowledgement to contributing institutions, as described above, must be added to the main manuscript.
